

Integration.
Automation.
Imagination.

The Myth of the Golden Ear and Audio

An audio/video system is a vehicle for conveying the vast emotional and intellectual potential of the music. The higher the quality of reproduction the deeper our connection with the music.

Bravo AV Consulting sells products that you can definitely hear the difference. It does not take a trained or “Golden Ear” to know what sounds good. If you have ever seen quality high definition TV you don’t want standard definition anymore. It’s the same way with a good audio system. Once you have heard quality audio and are moved by the music you don’t want to go back to mediocre sound. Because music is important, re-creating it with the highest possible fidelity is important.

Many of us have a practical knowledge of things we like and can communicate our preference without possessing the technical knowledge or specific vocabulary of the true expert. We talk with you using straight forward non-technical vocabulary. Come in and have a listen.